Kansas City just as before the episode a week age, that projected him into the limelight.

These statements were made by Mr. Lillis received a representative of each of the newspayers in his home, at Eleventh Street and Forest Avenue, for the purpose of showing that his wounds were healing rapidly and that in a few days he would be out again as sound a man in every particular as before the encounter with Cudahy, with none of his boility functions impaired.

It was a richly furnished bedroom in which Mr. Lillis was found, resembling a woman's boudely more than a man's sleeping room. He gave each caller a cheerful greeting and smiled as much as his injured mouth would allow.

Some days ago when Mr. Glenn was here he predicted, among other things, the defeat of Senator Simmons by Governor Kitchin. Simmons by Governor Kitchin. Simmons's defeat at the end of his second torm would, of course, be water on Mr. Glenn's wheel. Therefore the wish may be the father to the thought. At the same time, Mr. Glenn declared that he would not be a candidate for the House, and it is known here that he has told Cyrus B. Watson, a former local rival, that if he. Watson, wore nominated for Congress he would stump the district for him.

Everything points to a contest between Mossys. Glenn and Overman. His declaration here yesterday is very significant.

He shook hands with all present.
But it was not the well-known and dapper Jere Lillis that this "Jury" saw, not the bon vivant, not the smiling and debonair clubman that Kansas Cliy knows so well.

I was a man cut and scarred almost from head to foot, his legs swathed in bandages and adhesive plaster. Both his eyes were blackened and discolered and the lips were drawn and black where they had been bruised. "All right, doctor," he said, with something that might have been a wink had it not been for the discolored eyes.

"Now, then," said Dr. Ayres, and Mr. Lillis shut his mouth with a viselike snap and drew a sharp breath through his clenched teeth. The physician uncovered the body and showed all the cuts on the legs. There were thany knife vuts on both legs and two slight ones on the right hand, All of them are healing rapidly.

Dr. Ayres said his patient would be able to leave his bed by next Friday. Mr. Lillis was then asked for a statement about the events of that Sunday morning.

"I have nothing to say about it now, and do not think I ever shall have," was his reply.

It was evident the audience had been granted by Mr. Lillis for the purpose of showing his wounds. Not a vital or semi-vital part of his body is touched.

where performing administrative functions has been established for all time,

The fallure of the bond submitted by the Valley Paper Company to bear an approval of a judge or clerk of a court of record is vital to the petitioner's case, the court held, because the statute not only requires the bond to be approved in a particular manner, but expressly prohibits the joint committee from considering any proposal mittee from considering any propos which is not accompanied by a bond i approved (Signed) W. C. BLANTON, W. E. PURCELL, JR. Boston, March 11.—Marcus A. Bunce, of Groveland, Mass., appeals so women far and wide to take pily on his solitary state.

Mr. Bunce wants a wife, and in a letter just made public he offers some rare inducements in his universal wooling. He writes:

"My future wife may be as violent a suffragette as she pleases, and I will be her right hand man, for I believe in votes for women."

An applicant's ability as a cook cuts no swath with me. I think any healthy young woman can keep a house clean, and I can teach my wife the
